INVESTIGATING
WOLF'S RECORDIndianapolis Detectives Come to Rushville to Learn About Confessed Burglar.

MAY BE IMPLICATED HERE

Police Said To Suspect Rushville
Woman Who Ran Away With Wolf to be Accomplice.

That George Wolf, age thirty-two, son of Joe Wolf of this city and until recently a resident of Rushville, who has confessed to a number of robberies in Indianapolis where he is being held by the police pending further investigation of his past, may be connected with some local thefts is evidenced by the fact that some Indianapolis authorities were here last week to look up Wolf's record while she lived in Rushville.

Lieutenant Kinney and Detectives Duncan, Simmons and Manning of Indianapolis police force were here in an automobile consulting with the Rushville police about Wolf's career in Rushville. It was Detective Frank Duncan who brought about the arrest of Wolf in Indianapolis last week in a rather peculiar manner.

The loss of his hat proved to be Wolf's undoing, and when he was caught in the toils, he confessed to a number of robberies. Detective Duncan recognized a light crushed hat Wolf left in his hurry to reach the exterior of the home of Walter Jenkins, Gamewell operator at central police station, and John T. Sullivan, patrolman, at 404 North Noble street, Indianapolis.

Duncan had not seen the hat for weeks, but when it was handled to him as the sole clue left by Mr. Burglar, the sleuth fingered the hat gingerly, noted its peculiar blocking and then remarked triumphantly to his partner, Fred Simon:

"It belongs to our friend, Wolf. Let's go."

The detectives went to Wolf's home, and in his possession were found a coat belonging to Herbert Jenkins and a cap belonging to Paul Mansfield, a visitor at the Jenkins home. When Simon rapped on the front door Wolf made a flying run out of the rear door, only to be stopped by Duncan, who had drawn his revolver, to be prepared for any trouble. When the coat and cap were found he admitted the robbery, as well as a number of others. Jenkins and Sullivan live in one side of a double house, while Superintendent of Police Hyland occupies the other half.

Wolf said that he entered the house by removing a screen in a side window, and opened a rear door in case he was forced to make a speedy exit. Wolf said he was upstairs when he heard the sound of approaching footsteps, and looking from a window was surprised to see Patrolman Sullivan about to enter the house. Cornelius Sullivan, a brother, had been aroused when he stepped from his room in the hallway. Wolf was forced to drop from a window fifteen feet to the ground. He clung tightly to the coat and cap, but as he fell to the ground his own hat dropped beside him, and in his hurry to escape he left it where it had fallen.

In the meantime Patrolman Sullivan had entered his home and hearing his sister scream started up the stairway. His brother had started down the stairs and stumbled. In the excitement Wolf escaped.

Wolf was born and brought up here and married a Rushville girl, a daughter of Wash Levi. He followed a Rushville woman to Indianapolis, and since residing there, has learned all the tricks of the burglar's game. A few weeks ago Wolf was brought down here by his father and put to work out in the west part of the city, where some new sidewalks were being built. But he did not stick long, returning to Indianapolis. He was held in the Indianapolis jail for loitering at the time his father went after him, and was released only on the promise that he would not return to Indianapolis.

The Rushville woman with whom Wolf ran off to Indianapolis and who has been the attraction there for him is said to be suspected by the Indianapolis police as an accomplice of Wolf's in the many robberies he has committed. It is understood they think she has been acting as a "spotter," picking out the houses in the day time for Wolf to enter at night.

Wolf was accused of a theft here four years ago last July. The O. M. Cartmel residence was broken into and robbed. Among other things a gold watch was stolen from Mr. Cartmel.

FARMER COULDN'T
IDENTIFY THIEFL. F. Knotts of This County Was Not Sure Man Held Was One Who Robbed Him.

ALLEGED "DIP" IS RELEASED

Max Friedman, the Chicago bartender who was arrested at the Henry county fair last week for "lifting" $14 from the pocket of L. F. Knotts, a Rush county farmer, got off easy in the Newcastle police court because Mr. Knotts could not identify him as the man who stole his wallet. He did not realize his pockets had been picked until his empty pocketbook was found by Al Modlin of Newcastle. Friedman was fined two dollars and costs for intoxication, and paid the fine and was released.

Besides the case of Knotts, an unknown woman's purse and watch was stolen, but her identity was not learned and the case could not be pressed against Friedman. A band of pickpockets worked at other county fairs last week, and this has led the local authorities to believe that they may be following the county fairs. The fair ground will be cautious about suspicious looking characters and see that the thefts at other fairs are not duplicated here.

GLENN HUTCHINSON DEAD

Infant Son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hutchinson Expired.

Glenn Hutchinson, the two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hutchinson, died about twelve o'clock Saturday night at their home in Arlington. The child had been ill about fourteen days suffering with bowel trouble. The funeral services were held this afternoon at two o'clock in the Arlington Christian church conducted by the Rev. Mr. Conner. Burial took place in the East Hill cemetery there.

USUAL CROWD AT
FAIR GROUNDSLarge Number of Sunday Visitors
Were Impressed by Amount of Concessions Already Located.

ALL CLASSES WILL BE FILLED

Racing Program Promises to be Best
in Years—Interest Shown in Road Races.

Following the usual custom, hundreds of people visited the fair grounds yesterday. Sunday of fair week usually attracts a crowd of people and yesterday was no exception. It is the common opinion that there were more shows, concessions and exhibits on the grounds yesterday than on Sunday of fair week last year. Indications point to a most successful fair and everything will be in shape for the opening tomorrow.

The shows and stands were busy all day Sunday in getting their locations and setting up. All the available space has been taken. So great has the demand been that the secretary of the fair board was compelled to turn down a ninety-foot front animal show. There are more high class attractions on the grounds than ever before. Among the larger shows are a dog and pony show and two big vaudeville shows.

The big feature free act with Mlle. LaBella and Dave Devil Hurley arrived in the city this morning. The act was to have been here Saturday night, but due to a wreck while enroute from New Harmony, Posey county, the outfit was delayed. The fair association considers that they were lucky in securing this big feature act. It is entirely new and is a thriller. Mlle. LaBella shoots down a fifty foot incline in an automobile and is caught while in the air by Hurley who is suspended on his knees from a trapeze. The act will be put on in front of the grand stand on the inside of the race track.

The various classes of show and general purpose horses are rapidly filling and Secretary King says all the classes will be filled by the time the entries close. The stock exhibits are up to the standard. The race horses and a large amount of other things from the Columbus fair arrived this morning. The entries to the purse races closed this afternoon at five o'clock and a large number of starters are assured for each race. The track is in fine shape and the racing program is expected to be the best in years.

The two road races, a pace and a trot, and the two-year-old pace, are attracting perhaps the most attention of local drivers. The county trot will be on Wednesday, the pace on Thursday and the two-year-old event on Friday. This year the rules governing the county road races have been changed and does not keep out horses that have been trained. Besides a $50 purse the winner of the two-year-old pace will receive a free season to Charley Hayt and Ess H. Kay. Besides the light harness, motorcycle races have been arranged.

The dance pavilion, which will be a feature at the fair this year will be in readiness for the first day's dancing Wednesday. The pavilion will be open Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons and Thursday morning. The Auditorium orchestra of Connersville will furnish the music.

AGAINST POINT SYSTEM.

Newcastle Courier: "I am in favor of making every heat a race and dividing the money in that way," said John Dagler, the Rushville horseman. "The point system is not successful."

SAYS THERE'S NO
CAUSE FOR ALARMDr. J. G. Lewis Declares Typhoid Fever Germ Did Not Come From City Water.

ONLY THREE CASES HERE NOW

City Health Officer Does Not See
How Local Supply Could be Contaminated.

The appearance of typhoid fever in Rushville has given rise to rumors and stories that a great number of cases exist. In reality there are but three cases in the city at present. The city health authorities are puzzled over their source, but they are confident that they did not arise from the city water which has always been believed to be the purest water afforded by any city in Indiana.

The three patients are the little daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. T. Blount of North Morgan street, Charles Yunker of North Sexton street and one in North Arthur street. It is understood that all of the cases are under control and from present indications there will be no fatal termination of any one of them.

The reappearance of typhoid fever here has given rise to the question as to whether or not the city water is really free from any danger of infection. The health authorities have ascertained that all of the three patients have been users of city water, but they declare that this does not necessarily mean that the infection originated in the city water as there are so many other means by which one might be contaminated.

Typhoid fever has been a negligible disease here for years or ever since the city water system as it now is was installed, with the exception of a few stray cases. Several summers have been passed without even a case in the city. Last summer typhoid fever was fatal to John Lewis. He died county fair week. The health authorities believed that they traced that case to another source other than the city water. All other cases in recent years have been found to have originated from some source other than the city system.

"We are confident," said Dr. J. G. Lewis, city health officer today, "that the city water is free from contamination. Although all three of the patients have used city water we do not believe that the disease originated there. The water has been found to be pure and no infection has ever been found to have arisen there."

"But, isn't it possible the water might have been contaminated?"

"Not very likely," Dr. Lewis replied.

"They have been adding new wells to the mains."

"That's very true," answered Dr. Lewis, "but the wells are all so deep that there is no chance for them to be infected."

"People drink water that stands in the reservoir, don't they?" he was asked.

"Well, I think not," he replied. "I believe the reservoir is filled only for a fire."

Dr. Lewis insisted that there were so many ways in which the typhoid germ might be propagated that there was no reason to believe that it was in the city water just because the patients had been drinking city water which has been found to be pure and which is not very liable to be infected. He said conditions in the northwest part of the city were bad, because there are so many shallow wells.

"People dig their toilets about ten feet deep and then dig a well nearby not more than sixteen feet. The impurities filter through and are drunk in the well water. A person might be infected from vegetables which were washed in dirty water. Or milk pans might be washed in contaminated water and the germ transplanted in a person through milk, which is a better typhoid carrier than water. The germ thrives in milk."

Several people are known to have become so alarmed over the situation that they are boiling the city water before drinking it. Dr. Lewis said there was little warrant for being frightened, because typhoid is not contagious though it is infectious. He said the germ did not propagate in a certain form and in that form was not dangerous.

POLICE MAY HOLD
ALLEGED THIEFWoman, Who Had Husband Arrested,
Told Tales and Then Left
For Covington, Ky.

SAID HE WAS A PICKPOCKET

Alec Trobridge of Covington, Ky., was arrested Saturday evening by Policeman Wolter on the charge of wife desertion. Mrs. Trobridge came here Saturday, having received a "tip" that her husband was here. She proceeded to "round him up" and notified the police. Trobridge hearing he was wanted surrendered to Wolter. The story Mrs. Trobridge told the police, if true, warrants the police in holding him all week.

She alleged that he was a pickpocket and "made" fairs for that purpose. Trobridge was to have been arraigned this afternoon before Mayor Black, but Mrs. Trobridge, the prosecuting witness returned to Covington yesterday. It is not known what charge the police will prefer against him since she has gone but taking her at her word the police will probably hold him until after the fair.

IF BILL IS PASSED
NO SUNDAY MAILPostoffice Would be Closed All Day
Providing Proposed Measure
Becomes Law.

IS NOW BEFORE COMMITTEES

The attention of local postoffice employees has been called to a bill now before congress which if passed will do away with the delivery of any mail on Sunday except special delivery letters. The bill provides that all postoffices shall be closed on Sunday and no mail will be delivered.

The proposed bill has already passed the House and is now before a joint-committee from the House and Senate. At present the only mail delivered on Sunday at the local office is through the boxes.

If the proposed measure becomes a law even this will be stopped as the office will not be open. The bill before congress is a postal measure and one of the sections deals with the Sunday closing. It is not at all certain that it will pass. The closing of the office here on Sunday is thought would cause many hardships, especially among business men, who depend on the postoffice boxes for their Sunday mail. If the law becomes effective only one man would be forced to work and his work would deal with special delivery letters.

THEY MAY ENJOY
HEAVEN BY PROXYMen Who Let Wives do Church Work
May Not Expect Much of Future.

IS W. H. WYLIE'S ASSERTION

Pastor Addresses Plea to Brothers-
in-Law of Church at Union Meeting.

The man who enjoys the church proxy, through his wife, may enjoy heaven in the same way, was the assertion of the Rev. W. H. Wylie of the St. Paul M. E. church at the union meeting in the Coliseum last evening. His subject was "Brothers-in-law of the Church."

"The men who leave the work of the church to their wives are blood relatives to the men who allow their wives to support the family by taking in washings," continued the pastor. The Rev. Mr. Wylie said that he addressed his sermon last night to the men who supported the church and were in sympathy with it, but who would not become a component part of it.

"Men who are in sympathy with the church need only to confess Christ," he declared, "and they will be active rather than passive." The minister cited the case of Moses who exhorted his brother-in-law, who led the life of a Nomad, to go with him and give himself to a life of service.

"The life of the Nomad is a free and easy one and gets no place," said the Rev. Mr. Wylie. "The brothers-in-law of the church are in the same position as was Moses' brother-in-law, they live a care-free life, and they do not like the restraint that they believe would come with the Christian life."

The Rev. Mr. Wylie pointed out that Moses' first plea having failed, he resorted to another, that his brother-in-law come with him because of what he could do to help the kingdom of God. The pastor asserted there is a place for every kind of talent which God has given man. He said people have a false modesty about what they can do in the church yet they are offended if they are told of their weaknesses of which they complain when urged to work for the cause of the Christian religion.

The Rev. Mr. Wylie named the various kinds of talents which can be availed in the work of extending the kingdom of Jesus Christ. He said the power of speech, the power to write, the ability to sing, talent for art, the gift of making friends, the power of organizing, were all talents given by God to be used for His kingdom.

The Rev. Mr. Wylie said that ministers generally avoided the money question because it is unpopular. He said the idea was abroad that a minister had spoiled his sermon whenever he began talking about money. He recalled that it was a sad commentary on humanity in general that people are generally free with their money until the church asks for some of it. He asserted that people indulge their tastes to the limit, buy all the ice cream they want, spend their money for fine clothes and fine residences, but they suddenly grow miserly when the church wants a portion to carry on its work.

The pastor said it is asked: "But what do you do with all the money?" He pointed out that every cent contributed to the church is used for a worthy cause in doing home and foreign missionary work, in supporting preachers who have given up money making to minister to the spiritual wants of their flock, to build the churches and to teach children the

CONGRESS IS ON ITS FINAL WEEK
Adjournment Will Come Saturday, Leaders Say.
PROGRAM NOW WELL IN HAND

Only One Thing Now Stands in Way
of Plans For Adjournment, and That Is the Hitch on the Legislative Bill
Which the President Vetoes on Account of Riders, but Leaders Think
They Will Get Around This.

Washington, Aug. 19.—Declaring that the business now in hand can be dispatched by Friday or Saturday at the latest, leaders in congress are planning to adjourn the two houses
the latter part of this week. Four appropriation bills are still on the docket, but it is the general expectation that all of them will be out of the way Thursday. The legislative bill, which was vetoed by the president last week, may interfere with adjournment plans, but the leaders are not apprehensive on this score.

The Panama canal bill, as agreed upon by conferees of the senate and house, was passed by the house again
by a viva voce vote. As passed, the bill, which provides for the government and administration of the canal,
contains provisions for the passage of American coastwise vessels through the canal free of tolls and the admittance of ship building material to the canal zone free of duty. The bill already has passed the senate and it
now goes to the president for his signature.

President Taft has decided to sign
the Panama canal bill if congress will pass a concurrent resolution providing
that no provision of the bill shall supercede any right conferred under the Hay-Pauncefote treaty. If the president ascertains that such a resolution
cannot be put through congress there is some doubt as to what he will do with the bill.

The house voted down, 150 to 79, a proposal by Representative Foss of Illinois, Republican, for two battleships in the pending naval appropriation bill. The bill was sent back to conference with tacit instructions that
the senate's compromise of one battleship be accepted.

"HONEST JOHN" KELLY.
Gotham Gambler Says He Quits
Because of Rosenthal Murder.

New York, Aug. 19.—"Honest John"
Kelly is one of the New York gamblers who is mixed up in the investigation of the graft charges in connection with the Rosenthal case. Graft collecting became so bold that the proprietors of gambling houses paid at times by check. Some of these checks are being traced. One is said to have been drawn to Becker's order for $2-500, signed by Kelly. This check is alleged to bear the indorsement of a man high in the police department.
Kelly is said to have left for Canada,
declaring he was through with the game.

PARKER TO MAKE THE SPEECH

Former Candidate For President Will Notify Democratic Nominee for Vice President of Action of Baltimore
Convention, and Governor Marshall
Will Make His Address of Acceptance at University Park.

Indianapolis, Aug. 19.—At 2 o'clock
tomorrow afternoon Gov. Marshall will be notified that he is the choice
of the Democracy of the United States
for vice president. The ceremonies attendant on the notification will bring to Indianapolis one of the most notable gatherings of Democrats from all parts of the country that ever has assembled in the state. Judge Alton B.
Parker, chairman of the notification
committee, will deliver the address
which will tell the Hoosier governor
he is the choice of his party as running mate for Woodrow Wilson.
Thomas Taggart, national committee man from Indiana, will introduce Judge Parker to the gathering that will assemble for the notification.
Judge Parker's speech will be followed by Governor Marshall's formal address
of acceptance.

A feature of the ceremonies will be a parade, starting from the Denison
hotel, following the luncheon to be given distinguished guests by Thomas Taggart. The parade will consist of automobiles, bearing the members of the national committee, the notification committee and others. It will make the round of the downtown
streets and wind up at the speakers'
stand at Vermont and Meridian
streets, facing from the Indiana Democratic club, and overlooking University park, where the crowd will assemble. The stage will contain only the notable Democrats and guests who have been invited to attend.

Following the notification the distinguished guests will be taken for half an hour's automobile ride through the city, and then a reception will be given by Governor and Mrs. Marshall at their home. Besides the candidates for governor of all parties in Indiana,
state chairmen and other organization
officials of all parties and Democratic organization officers from all parts of the state will attend the notification.

PLAN TO REACH THE SMALL CONTRIBUTOR
New Scheme Proposed for Raising Campaign Funds.

New York, Aug. 19.—This week
every bank and trust company in the United States will get from William G. McAdoo, vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, a letter asking its officers to accept campaign contributions, not only for the Democratic party, but for the Republicans and Progressives also. Along with the letter which McAdoo sent,
went a letter from Governor Wilson in which the governor said that to "bring about the election of a president
through a campaign financed by popular subscriptions would be a distinct
and gratifying triumph."

McAdoo thinks that his idea will go
a long way toward eliminating the evil of large campaign contributions from corporations and others who would have favors to ask in case the contribution helps a party into power.
It is no new thing, as was pointed out,
for parties to appeal to the voters
for contributions, but McAdoo thinks that it will be easier for individual voters to give money in small sums
through their banks than to send it
in checks or money orders through the mails. He figures that there will be more small contributors than ever before.

Mr. McAdoo's letter plainly asks
the banks and trust companies:
"Will you agree to receive and transmit subscriptions to the Democratic national committee, the Republican national committee and the Progressive national committee? Speaking for the Democratic national committee, I would not ask you to act for one unless for all. It would be a patriotic service to the public and not to any one party."

A SECOND TRIAL
Another Indictment Confronts Dar-

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 19.—Clarence
S. Darrow, the Chicago lawyer,
who was found not guilty of the charge
of having bribed a prospective juror
in the McNamara case, must stand trial on a second indictment, according to an announcement made by District Attorney Fredericks, immediately after the acquittal.

Mr. Darrow's attorneys expressed incredulity when informed that there would be a trial on the Juror Bain indictment. They asserted that all of the evidence in the Bain case had been submitted in the trial just ended.

This Woman Didn't Scream.
Atlantic City, Aug. 19.—Mrs. Walter

from the apartment of her summer
villa rather than chance injury to her husband by waking him. She waited until she was sure the burglar had left the house before arousing Mr. Klemm.
He organized a posse of cottagers and searched the neighborhood, all to no avail.

TURKS AROUSED BY ALBANIAN TROUBLE
Will Not Temporarily With Rebels
Any Longer.

Constantinople, Aug. 19.—After seeming to have been overcome by recent concessions by the Turks, the Albanian trouble has flamed up again and
the situation is apparently more serious than ever. It is stated that 12,000 Albanians have seized Uskub and are preparing to march on Salonica. A detachment of 3,000 has advanced as far as Kuprili, which has been occupied.

The rebels opened the prisons at Uskub and liberated thousands of the inmates, the authorities not daring to interfere. Forced contributions were levied on the inhabitants.

The object of the advance on Salonica is alternately explained as an attempt to force the government to grant all the demands of the rebels,
some of which, it may be recalled,
were refused, or the determination to release former Sultan Abdul Hamid,
who is a prisoner there. The government, it is reported, has resolved not to temporize with the rebels any further, and has telegraphed the military commanders to oppose their advance.

PLEADED GUILTY
The Third of the Hillsville Court Assassins Accepts Compromise.

Wytheville, Va., Aug. 19.—Sidna
Edwards, one of the Hillsville courthouse assassins, pleaded guilty to second degree murder and was sentenced to serve fifteen years in the penitentiary. Two of his kinsmen have been found guilty of murder in the first degree, and on his mother's advice he accepted a compromise. Sidna Allen and Wesley Edwards, the ringleaders
in the raid on the courthouse in which six people were killed, are still at large.

Missing Link in Graft Chain:
New York, Aug. 19.—It is said that the district attorney's office has ob-

erful police department official for whom they worked, and that within a short time this uniformed officer and
two inspectors will be indicted for extortion.

Auto Wreck Kills Three.
White House, N. J., Aug. 19.—Three persons were killed when a touring car turned turtle near Gray Hook on the Flemington road, about two miles from here. The machine was owned by E. H. Burling of Huntington Valley, Pa. The victims were Burling,
his wife and John Gilroy, their chauffeur.

Fatal Runaway Accident.
Wabash, Ind., Aug. 19.—Mrs. Daniel

A PLOT, HE SAYS
Reform Mayor of West Hammond Denies Graft Charges.

Hammond, Ind., Aug. 19.—K. M.
Woscynski, mayor of West Hammond, who was elected on a reform
ticket supported by Miss Virginia
Brooks, the "Joan of Arc" of that community, has been arrested on charges
of accepting a bribe and assault and battery.

The warrant for the mayor was sworn out by George Rosenbaum, proprietor of a new hotel which was closed
on an order of the mayor. Rosenbaum stated that the "reform mayor agreed to protect him for a consideration of $40 a month. The keeper of the rooming house further stated that he paid Mayor Woscynski $40 on July 5 and a similar amount July 31. He stated that he also gave a diamond ring to Mrs. Woscynski and a diamond ring to the mayor's son.

Complaints were made by Miss Brooks and other residents that the hotel, which opened only a few weeks
ago, was being used for immoral purposes. The mayor closed it.

When Constable Berwinger informed him, the mayor punched him on the nose and produced a revolver. The constable is sixty-six years old, but he climbed with the mayor and took the weapon away from him. The mayor was released on bonds of $5,000 and the preliminary hearing will be held Wednesday. "This is a plot," the mayor asserted. "I never accepted
money from this man." The mayor
owns a saloon in West Hammond.

Cloudburst Does Heavy Damage.
South Bend, Ind., Aug. 19.—The worst electrical storm and cloudburst
in years broke over northern Indiana
and southern Michigan, causing heavy damage to power plants and electric railways. Trolley service between South Bend and St. Joe is entirely suspended because of washouts.

Wanted to See It Burn.
Wabash, Ind., Aug. 19.—Just to see
it burn, the six and seven-year-old
sons of Alonzo Ivan, a farmer, set fire
to a strawstack and the blaze at once spread to a barn near by, destroying
it with the contents. The loss is estimated at $5,000.

Aged Lineman Killed.
Gary, Ind., Aug. 19.—Yank Robinson, seventy-two years old, a lineman
in the United States Steel corporation
mills, was electrocuted in the mills.
He was the oldest man employed in the mills.

Financial Trouble Causes Suicide.
Rensselaer, Ind., Aug. 19.—Horace
Gilbert, a farmer living near here,
committed suicide by taking poison.
He was in financial trouble. He leaves a wife and six young children.

Not Permanently Injured.
Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 19.—Nat C.
Goodwin, the veteran actor, who was crushed on the rocks at Santa Monica by the overturning of a rowboat, is not permanently injured, as was believed. A thorough examination of Mr. Goodwin was made, and it was found that no bones were broken and there were no serious internal injuries. The physicians declared that there were no grounds for the apprehension that Mr. Goodwin would lose the use of his legs. He will be sitting up in another day, and will be able to be out in two weeks.

Expert Urges a Revision of Indiana's Road Laws

I am often asked the question, What is the matter with Indiana roads? and in reply to this question I have written the following:

There are approximately 25,000 miles of so-called improved roads in Indiana, at this time. These roads were improved at the expense of the 1,017 townships of the state. Many of them are not properly drained, many were not properly surfaced with road materials, many were not properly graded, the hills cut down or the hollows filled up, and dangerous curves removed. Few, if any, are properly and adequately maintained. This, in general is what is the matter with the county roads of Indiana today. Let us examine some of these defects more in detail, and see if we are getting full value for money expended.

1. These roads were constructed at the sole expense of the 1,017 townships of the state. This may have been fair at one time, when few used the roads other than the people of the townships, but today the main roads are not only used by these people, but are used by people of other townships, counties and even states, every day. The traffic on these main roads has increased in the last five years from five to ten times. Hence, many of these roads that were adequately constructed five years ago are worn out, and need to be reconstructed, and it is not fair or equitable to ask the taxpayers of the townships to pay the entire cost. At least one-half of the cost should be paid by the taxpayers of the whole state, and the state should have control and see to it that this reconstruction is adequate to sustain the increased traffic, and that they are scientifically and economically constructed, and thereafter properly maintained.

2. Many of the county roads are not properly drained. One of the leading tenets of all good engineers and road builders today is the question of drainage. Some go so far as to say that the three most important things in road building are first, drainage; second, drainage; third, drainage; and this is true whether the road is constructed of earth, gravel, stone or what not. Nothing operates so quickly to destroy a road as lack of drainage, or impaired drainage. Pages could be written on this subject.

3. Many of the roads were not properly graded, the hills cut down and the hollows filled up. A road, like a chain, is only as good as its poorest link. One-half mile of marshy road, or one-half mile of road with a rise of from seven to ten feet in one hundred lineal feet of road, will rob ten miles of otherwise perfect road of its economic value. The farmer can haul over that road only what his team can pull up that hill, or through that marshy stretch. Economy, the elimination of waste, demand that these defects be corrected.

4. Many of the so-called improved county roads, when constructed, were not properly surfaced with road material, through ignorance or neglect. Too often "any old material" was used. In the selection of the surface material the expert is needed. If gravel is to be used it should be the best that can be obtained in the vicinity of the road. The pebbles should be hard, tough and durable. Their size should not exceed 1 1/2 in the largest dimensions. The larger stones should be screened out or raked off after having been placed on the road and used in the foundation, by raking the same ahead as the work progresses. Naturally in a screening process several sizes will be properly proportioned so that the smaller particles of gravel are sufficiently great to fill the interstices among the larger ones, and the gravel should have a sufficient amount of binding material to fill the remaining voids so as to form one solid, impervious mass. To place gravel of practically uniform size, neither coarse nor fine, on a road, is not road building, and yet how many of our roads have long stretches so constructed. After spreading to the proper width, thickness and shape, the steam roller should be used until a smooth, hard surface is produced. It is hardly necessary to say that a large number of our roads were not so constructed.

This short and general statement applies equally to macadam and slag roads. It is true that on many of our main roads the traffic has become so heavy that no macadam or gravel road, no matter how well constructed, will endure for any length of time, but such roads constitute only from 10 to 20 per cent. of the whole, and should be built mostly by the public at large. It should be remembered that the cost of a road is not only its first cost, but to that sum, in order to get a fair comparison, should be added the sum, which invested at interest will yield the amount necessary to keep the road in such condition that its value can be realized. In other words, the basis of comparison is the yearly interest and maintenance charges.

And this leads us to the last objection, namely, "Few, if any, are adequately and properly maintained." The maintenance of roads is absolutely necessary if the returns on the money invested are to be realized. The investment is not the only cost of work done on the roads, but the value of the land itself. Even as a state this is an asset we cannot afford to neglect, yet we are neglecting it today.

We have ninety-two counties, 276 county commissioners or road directors, ninety road superintendents. The county roads in each county are divided into three districts, or 276 districts, each with a director, or 276 bosses. Each director, besides looking after the roads, must attend to all the other duties of county commissioners.

These officers are changing constantly, and few, if any, are engineers or trained or expert road men. What can we expect? It would seem to be desirable to place this duty on one experienced, responsible officer, with efficient aid, and not distribute it. The work is of the utmost importance. To have it done effectively and economically requires careful study, planning and systematic execution. The results obtained under the present system are not satisfactory.

Not only has the automobile proved very destructive, but the increased use of the road, in itself, has made the problem a much harder one. The cost of repair is usually stated as so much a mile, or square yard. The tonnage passing over the mile or square yard is not stated; in fact we have no data from which it can be figured. It is true that we have statistics to the effect that 90 per cent. of the traffic passes over from 10 to 20 per cent. of the roads, and it is evident that this 20 per cent. of the roads need more money spent on their construction and repair than the other 80 per cent. This is valuable, but does not answer the other question.

All roads must have some attention. Ditches, drainage, etc., must be kept clear. The shoulders must be kept in shape, the weeds cut, and minor defects made good before serious damage ensues. This can only be properly done by constant attention and inspection.

It is the almost universal belief nowadays among expert road administrators, that on roads of any considerable traffic this can only be done by the patrol system. This system could be put into practice under the present laws in Indiana if county commissioners would only see the necessity for it and do it. The underlying idea of the patrol system is the holding of some individual responsible for every section of road. What will it cost and will it be worth while? is often asked. This depends on the importance of the road, its construction, the value of traffic, etc. It must come with us here in Indiana, as it has come in other countries and other states, and when once adopted is never abandoned.

It would seem right and equitable that local communities should not bear all the cost of this general use, or through traffic. The through traffic is mainly motor traffic, and the autos should therefore pay a considerable part of the cost of maintaining these main roads. This they say they are willing to do provided the money is wisely and economically expended, and the roads properly maintained.

Other states have solved or are solving these questions by putting these main roads under state control, though highway commission or state engineer, with the state paying a part of the cost of construction and maintenance. The next legislature of Indiana should take up the question and solve it for Indiana.

FEW DESERTIONS.

(Marion Chronicle.)

A great parade is made by the Indianapolis Star of the few men operating newspapers that have called themselves Republicans in this State who have announced their fealty to the Stilwell-Lee-Landis-Beveridge political combination. The Chronicle receives practically every one of the two hundred Republican papers in the State, and those that are "off" can be counted on the fingers of two hands. It is a noteworthy fact that of the papers that have joined the new party, few of them were so badly afflicted with Republicanism that anyone could notice it—three or four have been mugwump papers, and two or three more neutral papers calling themselves Republican, but seldom courageous enough to talk politics. The Chronicle hopes that there will soon be a meeting of the Republican editors of Indiana, and it will then be evident that the deserters are few, very few, in number and small, very small in influence.

Perkins' Children.

Theodore Roosevelt, the man who said he would consider it a calamity for him to be a candidate for president again, was heckled and worried by the crowd in making a speech on the Boston commons Saturday night. Men wanted to know about the relation of George W. Perkins, the trust magnate and billionaire, to the third term candidate, and the hypocritical explanation of Roosevelt, who, on the night of the 1904 election said: "Under no circumstances will I be a candidate for or accept another nomination," and again a year later: "I have not changed and will not change that decision," should be read by every man who shall cast a vote for president next November.

When the crowd would be quiet long enough, Roosevelt ran amuck in explaining. He declared that dear Mr. Perkins came into the Bull Moose party of his own initiative, and not on the solicitation of the third term candidate. But listen to this: "The prime reason why I am with you," Roosevelt said Perkins told him, "is because I have children. I have come to the conclusion that this country won't be a good place for my children unless we have substantial justice, unless the relations between capital and labor are on a better basis."

Imagine a man with Mr. Perkins' wealth voting for his children! Of course, Mr. Perkins thinks as much of his children as any other man, but why should a man with a bank account that would be sufficient to bring up luxuriously all the children in Rushville vote for the welfare of his children? The literal translation of the word "children" is the infant trusts who are hobbing up under Perkins' hand and who need the kind of protection Roosevelt will give them if he is elected to the presidency.

Remember this!

On the day that Theodore Roosevelt was made President of the United States there were 149 trusts and combinations in the United States. When he turned this government over to William Howard Taft there were 10,020 plants in combinations. When he became President these trusts had an aggregate capitalization of three billion dollars and when he left the presidency they had an aggregate capitalization of thirty-one billion and more than 70 per cent of it was water.

Mr. Roosevelt's explanation to the Boston crowd is enlightening. Read it:

He(Roosevelt) made a vigorous defense of George W. Perkins of New York and William Flinn of Pittsburgh, two of his leaders. At the outset Col. Roosevelt announced that he would answer any question that anybody asked and that nobody could embarrass him for a minute.

"How about Perkins?" a man called out.

"I'm delighted to tell you about Mr. Perkins," the colonel replied. "I will satisfy everybody's thirst for information.

"Mr. Perkins is a rich man," he said. "He came into this movement, not at my request, but of his own initiative. I felt just the same curiosity that that man in the crowd, who asked me about him. I said to him: 'Mr. Perkins, why are you supporting me?' Mr. Perkins flushed and said he did not know, but that he ought to be offended, but I told him he should not be, and that I was both surprised and pleased to have his support.

"The prime reason why I am with you," he told me, 'is because I have children. I have come to the conclusion that this country won't be a good place for my children unless we have substantial justice, unless the relations between capital and labor are on a better basis. I wish to support any movement which will bring that about. So far as I can see,' Mr. Perkins told me, 'you are the only public man who in good faith is supporting those views.'

"I have told you literally what Mr. Perkins said. Curiously enough it was almost exactly what Mr. Flinn said to me later. I have immensely appreciated the support of Mr. Perkins and Mr. Flinn. Their support has been given in the open. There is nothing invisible in this movement. Mr. Perkins and Mr. Flinn, both heartily approve of the Progressive platform adopted at Chicago.

"I said to Mr. Perkins: 'You are in the steel industry. Before you support me I wish you to understand that I intend to work for regulation of the big industrial concerns, including the steel industry.' Mr. Perkins said that that was all right and that he believed in it.

"Mr. Flinn and Perkins have supported this movement without asking a thing and with the assurance given to me personally that they are not seeking a thing. As long as they do that they are entitled to the respect which any good citizen gets: If ever I do anything in the future for Mr. Perkins or Mr. Flinn, that I should not do, then I am to be condemned and they are to be condemned. But unless I do, it shows a small mind to object to their work for this movement."

INVESTIGATING WOLF'S RECORD

Cartmel's trousers. In some manner Mr. Cartmel came to suspect Wolf and he filed a charge against him and had him arrested.

Wolf produced the watch that had been taken from Cartmel's house and it was returned to the owner. But he pleaded not guilty to the theft. He said that he had found the timepiece out in a field. The charge was not pressed very vigorously after the stolen property was returned and Wolf was finally released.

The appearance of a picture of Wolf in the Indianapolis Star yesterday resulted in Mrs. Albert Serees of Indianapolis recognizing him as the man who broke into her home recently and took $1.75 and also carried an artificial leg into the yard. Mrs. Serees saw the burglar in the house and declares Wolf is the man. The same night $75 and a diamond ring were stolen from the home of R. J. Osborn; $5 was taken from the home of Frank McGee, and $6 was obtained by a burglar at the Otto Caudell home. Wolf denied these burglaries when arrested last week, but because of Mrs. Serees' statement, will be questioned further.

When arrested last week Wolf was able to give the police the names of three homes he had robbed. Wolf says he once entered a home in the eastern part of the city and after obtaining all the valuable loot, was about to step from an open window when he found another burglar about to enter the place by the window which he had "jimmied."

"At first I thought that I was up against it," said Wolf, "for I believed I had run into the owner of the house or some plain-clothesman. We stood and looked at each other for fully fifteen seconds, and in that time I had made up my mind that he was following my line of business. I was the first to speak and I told him that he was just twenty minutes late, although it hadn't taken me that long to ransack the house. The other man turned and walked rapidly away as he said, 'You've got it on me this time, old pal.' I then stepped from the window and hurried home."

Wolf admitted entering other homes, which he said he would be able to point out to the detectives. Following Wolf's arrest several months ago, he was shadowed by the detectives, who on a number of occasions watched him leave his home at 2 o'clock in the morning, but could never catch him when he returned home. Wolf said that he was always armed when he started out to pull off any jobs. He is charged with burglary and larceny, and his case was continued.

IS AUGUST HEAT RECORD

Temperature at 95 Sunday Works Hardship on Motorists.

The highest temperature for the month was reached yesterday when the thermometer recorded ninety-five degrees. Ninety-two was the highest mark reached today and a light rain cooled the atmosphere this afternoon. The heat yesterday worked a hardship on many motorists from here. There were many instances where patches on inner tubes were melted off by the sun's rays and made it necessary for an hour's delay along the dusty roads.

WILL AID BOYS IN THEIR EDUCATION

Stock And Grain Judging Contests at State Fair Offer Some Rare Opportunities.

$250 IN PRIZES OFFERED

The State Board of Agriculture, in its premium list for the Indiana State Fair for 1912, outlines a plan whereby a number of Indiana boys, between the ages of 16 and 20, will be helped toward securing an agricultural education, says a notice sent out by G. I. Christie. Parents who are thinking of sending their boys to this school should write at once to Chas. Downing, secretary of the Indiana State Board of Agriculture, Indianapolis, and he will send a premium list giving full details of the stock and grain judging contests, which will be held Tuesday, September 3d, starting at 8 a. m.

Enter your boy in this contest. Premiums, of scholarships to the of $100, $75, $50, $25, respectively, for winners of first, second, third, and fourth places. Purdue University will help entrants to prepare for this contest by sending, upon requests, a copy of Purdue circular 29, "Live Stock Judging for Beginners." Address Supt. G. I. Christie, for it. Start to prepare now.

THE WEATHER

Thunder showers tonight or Tuesday. Not so warm Tuesday in south and central portion.

DENOUNCE LIGHT FOR ASSERTION

Friends of Watson Say Indianapolis Doctor Knew Statement Uttered Was False.

YES, AT BULL MOOSE MEETING

Local friends of James E. Watson are very much exercised over the report published in the Indianapolis Star yesterday that Dr. R. C. Light of Broad Ripple said at a Bull Moose meeting in Indianapolis Saturday night that James E. Watson told him personally he voted for a Democratic legislative ticket two years ago to assist the efforts of the Republican machine to defeat Beveridge for reelection to the senate. Mr. Watson was not here today to express his opinion of the assertion and the man who uttered it, but many of his friends said the statement was false and had no element of truth in it, and the man who uttered it knew that. And besides Will Newbold, who was the Democratic legislative candidate here, says he knows Watson did not vote for him.

Mr. Watson made a chautauqua address in Litchfield, Illinois, yesterday, spent today in Terre Haute, and will leave tonight on a business trip to Alabama.

SOCIETY NOTES.

The opening reception of the delegates and visitors to the Kappa Alpha Phi national convention at Alexandria, August 28, 29, and 30, will be an outdoor affair. It will be held on the evening of August 28, on the O. P. Overman lawn, and the members of the two sororities will assist. An orchestra will furnish music and it is expected to be the most elaborate outdoor social affair ever held in Alexandria. The above will interest the local members of Kappa Alpha Phi and those expecting to attend from here.

The marriage of Miss Wilhelmina Myers of New Augusta, Ind., and Cassius Clay Smith of this city, was solemnized last Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's grandfather in Lebanon, in the presence of a small company of friends and relatives. The Rev. Mr. Brown, pastor of the First Christian church of Lebanon officiated, using the old English ceremony. The bride wore white silk mull with a white hat. After congratulations they left immediately for the home of the bridegroom's parents, where light refreshments were served.

Miss Myers is a musician and is popular in Indianapolis. Mr. Smith was formerly a conductor on the I. & C. and has many friends here as well as in Indianapolis. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will be at home to their many friends on a farm at New Augusta, after September 1.

AMUSEMENTS

The Princess offers a Vitagraph drama "The Light That Failed" for the first picture. It is said to be a very dramatic picture telling a powerful story. The other is a Kalem drama, "The Girl Strikers." Tomorrow night Arthur Johnson will be seen in a fine drama, "Her Gift."

The Guy Stock Co., the most popular company that ever showed in Rushville is here for a week's visit. They will put up their tent in the ball park, South Main street. There are some features connected with the show that are not usually found among them being two brides and bridegrooms. It is amusing to watch these love-sick couples when other actors and actresses make love to their sweethearts. The bridegrooms are Thurrow Wolf and "Charlie" Guy, and you will know who the brides are after you see the show. Now just for fun when you go to the show, just watch the behavior of the ones given special mention. It is an easy matter to pick 'em out. The company presents a line of new plays and some new actors and come to Rushville stronger and better than ever.

Word has been received here that Ulie Friend of St. Louis, Mo., formerly of this city, was taken ill with typhoid fever in Vincennes, Ind., and is at the St. Mary's hospital there.

I was choking with wrath—wrath is the proper word—and I had spoken. And in the name of sense what did they want with a snap-shot of me? But the way was clear. Everybody was looking at the camera man, so I grabbed at my hat to keep it from flopping and made a dash for liberty, running just as fast as my tennis wind would let me, with a string of reporters suddenly coming to their senses and running after me. It must have looked funny, especially when at the corner half of them realized that they had left the house unguarded, except for the camera man, who was hampered with his paraphernalia, and scurried back like so many jack rabbits. It was a race between the rest of us to the little apartment where Jo was waiting breakfast for me.

I was out of breath when I rushed in and closed the door, leaving the reporters on the sidewalk outside. And of course I began at the wrong end, and told Jo the reporters were there and showed them to her before I told her why; then I had her scared to death between an idea that something had come out of the mine and that I had killed somebody before I could get to what it was all about.

"I Ducked My Head Just as the Click Sounded."

"I hope they don't think you took that bracket, Louie," she said, pausing with my breakfast in the air. I was awfully hungry, too, after my run.

"Of course they don't," I replied hurriedly, grabbing the plate before she could take it back. "That is, the Hazards don't."

"I won't have you stay where you are going to be worried by any such foolishness," she declared, pushing back her own breakfast. "It's quite a dreadful thing you're telling me."

"I don't think anybody in the family is going to let me be worried, and I haven't been accused of anything," I told her, "so eat your breakfast and don't you worry. They have been awfully decent to me. They don't like Natalie."

"But the son is engaged to her," Jo reminded me.

"I'm not so sure," I answered. "I've never noticed that he gets highly excited over her. In fact, Jo, if I were a little conceited I'd tell you I think he is already beginning to turn around and look."

"At you, of course," Jo said, with unerring penetration that would have

SAGE TEA WILL DARKEN THE HAIR

Restore Faded and Gray Hair to Natural Color—Dandruff Quickly Removed.

There is nothing new about the idea of using Sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our grandmothers kept their hair dark, glossy and abundant by the use of a simple "Sage Tea." Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance, they made a brew of Sage leaves, and applied it to their hair with wonderfully beneficial effect.

Nowadays we don't have to resort to the old-time tiresome method of gathering the herbs and making the tea. This is done by skillful chemists better than we could do it ourselves; and all we have to do is to call for the ready-made product, Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, containing Sage in the proper strength, with the addition of Sulphur, another old-time scalp remedy.

This preparation gives youthful color and beauty to the hair, and is one of the best remedies you can use for dandruff, dry, feverish, itching scalp, and falling hair. Get a fifty cent bottle from your druggist today, and you will be surprised at the quick results. All druggists sell it, under guarantee that the money will be refunded if the remedy is not exactly as represented.

Special Agents, Hargrove & Mullin.

A QUICK RELIEF FOR HAY FEVER

A Simple, Safe, Inexpensive Treatment Relieves All Distressing Symptoms.

Do you suffer for weeks every Summer with Hay Fever or Rose Cold? If you do, just get a fifty cent bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist, and see how quickly you will get relief. In five minutes after applied that stuffed-up feeling in the head will be gone, the pain and soreness in the back of the throat relieved, and the sneezing and running at the nose stopped.

Moreover, this remedy does not simply give you temporary relief, but heads and strengthens the weakened, inflamed membranes lining of the nose and throat, making it less sensitive to dust, dampness and certain odors, which generally bring on the fits of sneezing and weeping.

Don't suffer any longer, and don't experiment with strong snuffs, powders and sprays which aggravate the trouble, but try this simple, sensible treatment. If you are not satisfied after fair trial, your druggist will give back your money.

made her a great lawyer. "I hope, dear, you won't make the mistake of falling in love with him."

"Well, I can't say," I laughed. "It's just as likely to be John Crowninshield. He's a dear, and I'm crazy over that gray at his temples; or Mr. Abbott, if Laura doesn't want him—he's so real. Then there are a lot of '09's, all dandy dancers and all right in a ballroom, but I'll have to wait and see how they'd qualify as the other half of a romance."

Jo laughed and leaning over patted my hand.

"Louie, you're quite impossible, and quite capable of taking care of yourself," she said; and she pulled her plate forward and began to eat.

"Well, now, I'll tell you about His Grace," I condescended. "Jo, did we ever meet a duke?"

"We never did," she replied. She gave me a tolerant look as if she thought I needed humoring. "The best we ever did was a German count. We've only been connected with high society during the past week."

"But we saw any number of dukes and things at the President's salon in France. Phil Dempsey pointed them out. I remember he said they were so thick there you couldn't stir them. I believe he had to list them for the Herald, or something of that sort. Now think hard. Do you remember the Duc de Trouville?"

Jo's eyelashes swept her cheeks.

"I don't," she replied. "I don't remember any of them. Why?"

"Oh, nothing particularly," I had to admit, "but last night—well, I got the notion that I'd at least seen him somewhere, although he is so important, and I don't know where I could have seen him. And another notion, that I connected him with something as a reason for remembering him."

"You're rather vague," she laughed. "Did we ever come across a bogus duke?" I asked.

"No, dear, we never did, and be assured that the Hazards would never make such a mistake. And the newspapers wouldn't. He's genuine. Did you see the morning papers?"

She got them for me, but the mere glitter of the affair did not interest me now, or the columns about His Grace and his long line of brilliant ancestors who went back to the eleventh century. Natalie's bracelet was under another head and only referred to as being lost. I sighed. I really had expected something from Jo about His Grace; I didn't quite know what.

"Just what, particularly, have you in mind?" Jo asked, looking at me steadily as she always does when I begin to fish or beat about the bush.

"Well, His Grace was on the balcony with Miss Agazziz," I confessed. "So were you and your Mr. Abbott."

"Mr. Abbott went for a glass of water," I reminded her.

"Oh, I see," she mused. "Louie, you'd stand a poor chance against a real duke if that bracelet has been stolen."

"I suppose I'm crazy for thinking anything, Jo, or allowing myself to remember what Laura said about being suspicious of the duke's politeness, because she was only joking. But Miss Agazziz is so sure she didn't lose her bracelet, and I'm just as sure I didn't take it. It's insured, and you know the insurance company is going to do some investigating before they pay for it."

Jo frowned, then her brow cleared and she smiled at me.

"I've never believed much in people getting punished for things they didn't do, but if anything uncomfortable does come out of it, dear, be sure to tell the truth and stick to it. Mr. Partidge says it's the only way to keep from getting mixed up, and that a straight story is a pretty good proof of innocence."

I felt very much better after my talk with Jo, although we didn't get anywhere or solve either of the vexing questions. She had to go to her botany so I went back to the Hazards fearfully dreading that awful camera man at every step, and the cluster of reporters at the front door. But they had disappeared; I gained my room in safety.

Laura knocked on my door when she heard me come in—

"Are you up?" she called.

I opened the door before I removed my hat.

"Good gracious!" she exclaimed. "You don't mean to tell me you've been out? I was going to ask you to have breakfast with me. We are a bit demoralized this morning; in fact we have been ever since we moved to the hotel, but we'll settle down tomorrow; then a breakfast gong at eight, and mother at the head of the table pouring coffee. It's her hobby. Have you had your breakfast?"

"Yes, with my sister," I answered. "I wanted to have a talk with her about—well, about that lost bracelet. Do you know I was set upon by reporters as I went out this morning, and a man snapped me?"

"Louie! Wasn't that awful? Well, somebody has to go through that every time Natalie loses something. It was the Abercrombies last time. Mother had a trying quart d'heure with the newspaper men."

"Has she really lost things before?" I asked eagerly, "and is that why you're so sure about me?"

"Yes," Laura answered, "but I'd be sure about your anyhow." She sat with her hands clasped about her knees for a time, her breakfast growing cold. "I am going to trust you with something," she said finally. "It is a strange thing that each time Natalie has lost one of her foolish bracelets, Winthrop has been near her."

"Mr. Abbott!" I exclaimed. "Surely he didn't—"

"Of course not," she put in, as I paused. "If I thought anybody entertained an idea he did, that is anybody but Natalie, I'd marry him tomorrow to prove what I thought about it."

"Notwithstanding His Grace and a title?" I asked.

"Notwithstanding everything, except that he hasn't asked me," she laughed. "Each time the horrid thing has happened when I had fairly dragged him there. Doesn't it sound foolish?"

I nodded my head, amazed at this new turn of affairs.

"He went for a glass of water anyhow," I told her. "If Miss Agazziz thinks her bracelet was stolen while she was on the balcony, why—?"

"Oh, a clerical lawyer could twist you all up on that, dear, if it's a point to prove he didn't take the bracelet. Thieves are usually prestidigitators, anyhow."

"What does your mother think of it?" I asked.

"She thinks it's all absurd and that Natalie is just careless. Things do get lost sometimes. Natalie has so many bracelets on that arm she doesn't know when she loses one until she gets home and counts them. You know my mother isn't anxious to see me marry Winthrop; she doesn't think we'd see one bit, on account of his always wanting to nope in a garden while I always want to flutter about at teas and

Rubbing an aching back may relieve it.

But won't cure it if the kidneys are weak.

You must reach the root of it—the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills go right at it; Reach the cause; attack the pain. Are recommended by many Rushville people.

Harrison Levi, 931 N. Sexton St., Rushville, Ind., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are the only remedy that ever did me any good. I am glad to confirm what I said in their praise in 1907. I had to get up several times at night to pass the kidney secretions which were sometimes attended with pain. I had severe backaches, too. I finally got Doan's Kidney Pills at Johnson & Co's. Drug Store and it did not take them long to make me well. The pains all left the actions of my kidneys became regular. I am now free from kidney weakness."

things; but she doesn't believe he's a thief."

"It's quite ridiculous," I agreed. A little silence fell between us while Laura aimlessly stirred her chocolate and I took off my hat, sticking the pins back and forth into it, and that isn't conducive to the general health of spring headgear. I was thinking of that simple life Jo and I had been leading with no jewels to bother about; where the days were full to the brim of things to work out, and learn, and do. What a tidy little life it was, to be sure; tidy and comfortable and dear.

"But I wish I knew," I said at last, "whether Miss Agazziz really lost her bracelet or not."

"Oh, I know she did," Laura assured me. "Don't you worry; nothing ever came of those other lost bracelets, except bother with newspaper men and raising a still unanswered question with the insurance company. But if anybody makes it uncomfortable for Winthrop, I'll marry him whether he asks me or not. Then John will have to fight for me; and I'm sorry for any one else suspected if John takes it up."

"Meaning me?" I smiled.

"Goodness, no! She lost those other bracelets before you appeared on the scene."

"Then His Grace—?" My heart began to thump as I put the question.

"No, he wasn't there either. Our evidence, dear, if we admit the bracelet was stolen, is all against Winthrop. Foolish, isn't it?"

GEN. T. H. BARRY
 Commands Eastern Division
 in Succession to Gen. Grant

Washington, Aug. 19.—Major General Thomas H. Barry, U. S. A., superintendent of the military academy at West Point, has been assigned to command the eastern division with headquarters in New York, succeeding the late Major General Frederick D.
 Grant. Colonel C. P. Townsley, in command of the Portland (Me.) artillery district, will succeed General Barry
 as superintendent of the military academy Aug. 31.

CHINA IS AGITATED OVER YUAN'S ACTION

New President Is In Danger of Impeachment.

London, Aug. 19.—The whole of China is convulsed, says the Pekin correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, over the recent execution at Pekin of two generals who were suspected of being in a conspiracy to start a new revolution.

It is understood that the advisory council will attempt to impeach Yuan Shih Kai, who is so convinced of the possibility of his assassination that he has surrounded himself with throngs
 of troops so that access to him is impossible.

The turning point in the life of the republic, according to the correspondent, has arrived. Yuan Shih Kai cannot much longer delay showing his real hand.

The correspondent, in giving the details of the seizure and execution of General Chang, says "that there was something curiously devilish in the manner in which it was carried out."

Got the Wrong Man.
 Vienna, Aug. 19.—There was a sensational crime at the cathedral here Sunday just prior to the celebration of high mass. The clergy were on their way to the cathedral in their canon-icals when a young man darted into the crowd and stabbed Suffragan Bishop Plueger in the back. The bishop dropped to the street, his vestments dyed with blood. The assassin was seized by onlookers. He told the police later that he intended to stab Cardinal Nagel, but somebody pointed out the wrong man to him. The stabbed is an escaped lunatic named Prinz.
 The bishop's wounds are not dangerous.

She Meant Business.
 El Paso, Tex., Aug. 19.—Riding up
 before the police station in Juarez,
 a woman, said to be the wife of Colonel Alanis, now operating with a rebel band near Palomas, covered the acting chief of police with a Winchester,
 commanded him to give up his rifles
 and six-shooters, and seized half a dozen horses standing in front of the station. Mrs. Alanis was accompanied by several unarmed rebels and the party escaped to the mountains.

He Was Too Official.
 Indianapolis, Aug. 19.—Hawley T.
 Pringle aroused suspicion when he talked too much about the robbery of a drug store, and was arrested charged with burglary. He offered to assist the officers on the case. Seventy-five pennies and two nickels taken from the cash register in the drug store
 were found by the detectives burned
 in the rear of Pringle's home.

PENROSE GOING TO FIGHT IT OUT

Pennsylvania Senator Restive Under Accusation.

ROOSEVELT'S NAME MENTIONED

Stir Has Been Created at Washington
 by Disclosure of Alleged Relations Between Senator Penrose and the Standard Oil Company in 1904 and Possibility That ex-President Roosevelt's Name May Enter the Inquiry.

Atlantic City, Aug. 19.—With not only state but national leaders, Senator Penrose had a lengthy conference
 here, and to his most trusted lieutenants gave directions for counteracting the attempt which he admits is to be made by William Flinn to have him impeached in the United States senate.

After the conference Senator Penrose announced that he was ready to meet the charge and defied anyone to lay the case before the senate committee of which Senator Moses Clapp
 is chairman. He said that he welcomed the opportunity, as certain of the progressive leaders had sought to attack his integrity and involve him
 in a deal with the corporations that showed he had been party to corrupt practices.

When asked why he declined to give
 out the details of the expenditure of the money, the senator said: "If I am called to the bar of the senate to answer the accusation against me would it be right to expose my defense before I was charged with the act which is hinted at? I am ready to answer at any time the accusation and I defy anyone to say that I ever used corporation money for any purpose."

"I will say, however, that from what I recall of the incident, that most of this money went to the treasurer of the Republican campaign committee
 and that the greater part of it was used in carrying New York state for Roosevelt in the presidential campaign
 in 1904.

"I only want someone to make the direct accusation that I had anything to do with spending this money or any portion of it. Whoever does will find that they have made the most serious
 blunder, and I welcome an investigation."

ROOSEVELT'S NAME

May Be Drawn Into Disclosures if Penrose Follows Plan.

Washington, Aug. 19.—The news
 that Roosevelt's name may be drawn into the disclosures in regard to the $25,000 contribution made by John D.
 Archbold of the Standard Oil company
 to Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania
 in 1904, caused a stir here. The Pennsylvania senator has not returned from Philadelphia, but his friends contend that Colonel Roosevelt had knowledge of the fund that Penrose
 was raising. Penrose's friends added that the money was used chiefly in pushing the presidential candidacy of Mr. Roosevelt.

It will be recalled that the campaign
 of 1904 was enlivened at one stage by a charge made by Judge Parker, the Democratic nominee, that the Republican national committee was receiving large contributions from the trusts. President Roosevelt was thrown into a rage by Parker's charge
 and dared him to make good. Parker's friends have contended since
 that he had information in his possession at the time, but that he was obliged to withhold it on account of Daniel S. Lamont refusing to release him from a pledge of confidence.

Friends of Senator Penrose said that if he speaks out in regard to the Archbold fund there will undoubtedly be a fine rumormongering between him and the colonel. It has only been within comparatively recent years that Senator Penrose has been emphatically branded as a "bad boss" by Colonel Roosevelt.

Senator Penrose's trip to Philadelphia had to do, it is said, chiefly with collecting data bearing on this Archbold contribution. Prior to his departure for Philadelphia, Senator Penrose
 made up his mind to give the details
 in regard to the campaign fund of 1904 in Pennsylvania. After his return he will hold another conference
 with his friends, and if he adheres to the plan which he had when he left
 Washington he will make a statement.

Progressives Denounce Penrose.
 Pittsburg, Aug. 19.—Roosevelt leaders in Pittsburg back of the plan to institute impeachment proceedings against Senator Boies Penrose because of the Archbold Standard Oil letter
 exposures, used the short and ugly
 word in discussing Penrose's reported
 plan to explain the receipt of money
 from Archbold on the theory that he got it to use in Roosevelt's fight for re-election in 1904. They declare it is the explanation of a man heading for any port in a storm.

Peace Negotiations Begun.
 Constantinople, Aug. 19.—It is understood that formal and private negotiations have been begun by Turkish delegates and representatives of Italy, with a view to discovering a basis for the conclusion of the Turco-Italian war.

ONE BIG INNING
ENOUGH TO WIN

Rushville Bunches Hits Off Whitridge
in the Sixth and Defeats Mt.
Jackson 4 to 1.

LONE RUN COMES IN NINTH

Contest is Pitchers' Battle With Avery Having Shade—Best Game of Season.

Bunching hits in the sixth inning off Al Whitridge, late of the St. Paul American Association team, Rushville nosed out a victory over the Mt. Jackson Athletics yesterday, 4 to 1. That one big frame was the downfall of the Athletics and enabled the locals to romp home with the bacon. By right Rushville should have scored a shut out as Avery held them safe throughout and their one run came in the ninth inning.

The one run, spoiling the shut out could have been prevented. In the course of prevention several "ifs" enter into the disussion. With two down and Whitridge on first, Poole batted for Coble and laid an easy one down towards Finn. Thomas dropped the throw and all hands were safe. Now for the first "if" If Finn had thrown to second instead of to first, Whitridge would have been forced out by a mile. Then again, with Whitridge on second, Anderson threw to first to catch Poole and Whitridge stole third on the play. But Whitridge was due to score and he did.

Although practically giving the visitors their one run, the fans were satisfied. It was sure some game and was the first hard battle the locals have been in. Because Rushville won is no discredit to the Mt. Jackson team. The visitors were by far the best team that has been here and Rushville played hard to win. The game was full of sensational plays and was really a pitcher's battle with Avery having a shade. He kept his hits scattered while the locals got to Whitridge for theirs in the sixth.

For five innings Whitridge pitched superb ball allowing only one hit and striking out seven men. But when the big show did start the locals took advantage and put the game on ice. After the fatal inning Whitridge settled down and Rushville failed to annex a single run. "Chick" Avery was in fine form and with excellent support got away with the game. It was an air tight affair until the big sixth.

Templeton and Butler, the first two men to face Avery struck out and Buchanan was an easy out, Carter to Thomas. Finn struck out. Carter flew to right and Cook struck out.

In the second Whitridge got as far as third and it looked as though the fireworks had started, but Avery worked out of the hole. Riley struck out Whitridge hit safe to right and took second on Waiter's sacrifice. Coble was safe on Carter's error. Whitridge advancing to third where he died as Woodson grounded out. Cook to Thomas. In the Rushville half after Halterman drew a pass. Anderson. Chance and Thomas went out in order.

The third was a repetition of the first two frames. Gould was out Carter to Thomas. Templeton hit safe to left, but a moment later was caught off first by Anderson. Butler grounded out, Carter to Thomas. The Rushville half was short and sweet. Avery, Finn and Carter struck out.

It was the same story in the fourth and fifth, both sides going out in one, two, three order. In the sixth the locals opened up on old man Whitridge. Avery started the battle with a nice single. Carter hit to right and took second on a bad throw. With Finn on third and Carter on second Cook hit to right center for three bases, scoring both men. Halterman placed a three base hit almost in the same place Cook did. Anderson was out Butler to Coble. Chance hit safe scoring Halterman. Thomas was safe on Woodson's error and

Geraghty ended the slaughter by striking out.

The seventh inning opened by Whitridge hitting one to the willows. The ball went foul by a few feet over the board in left field. Al got peeved because "Umps" Feigart called it foul and just for revenge slammed out a two bagger through the infield. But Whitridge was due to die on third for the second time as the rest were easy outs. The score: Mt. Jackson Ab. R. H. PO. A. E. NOTES OF THE GAME.

Although Whitridge is no youngster he still has a lot of base ball. For five innings he pitched as nice a game as has been seen here this year but when he went to pieces he did it right.

That the locals have some team was shown yesterday. To beat the Athletics meant a win over one of the best teams in the State. They recently lost an eleven inning game to the A. B. C's.

Johnnie Geraghty cheated Butler out of what appeared to be a safe hit in the eighth. Geraghty made a hard run for the ball and succeeded in getting it.

Jack Stonecipher and the "faithful" were much in evidence. They sure went crazy during the fireworks in the sixth.

Charley Feigart of Connersville umpired a nice game. Feigart in his decisions gave each team an even break. Feigart is not new to local fans as he used to play right field on Connersville in the days gone by.

Avery "beamed" Whitridge on the head in the ninth. Al persisted in standing right on the plate and Avery worried him and finally Whitridge walked into one.

The big frame was featured by Cook and Halterman's triples to right. Both balls landed almost in the same place.

About the happiest thought Manager Maibaugh has had this season was the placing of a large umbrella over the Rushville bench for the scorers and reporters.

TRIAL TO BEGIN TODAY

Second Hearing Price Murder Case to Begin at Greensburg.

The second trial of Zachariah Price of Jennings county, brother of Will Price of this city, who is charged with shooting his farm laborer, Fletcher Cook, was to begin today in Greensburg. In the first trial last March the jury voted six for acquittal and six for conviction. Price shot Cook December 12, 1911, at the former's farm near Butlerville after a disagreement. Price was indicted at North Vernon and took a change of venue to Greensburg.

Byron Perry, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Smith of Jackson township was taken to Indianapolis today where he will undergo an operation at the Deaconess hospital.

way of the Christian life.

The Mr. Wylie pleaded with the church's brothers-in-law to enlist in the cause of raising the fallen, and against vice and evil.

"You say you are not against us," he continued, "but you are on the fence and you are not helping us. Come off the fence and join us. We need you. Twice in the last few days the story has come to my ears of Christian men who have been dragged down by the open saloons. Help us in this fight to make this city a better place to live in and a better place to bring up your children.

"You say you are honest men. The honest man is one who pays his debts. You owe Jesus Christ a bigger debt than you can write with your check. Come on and help us."

"We do not expect compensation in the work of God," he said in conclusion, "but there comes back to them in the cause of wealth of satisfaction. Not a sacrifice is made in His name but that you receive a rich reward. The world can give you no satisfaction such as is gained by throwing your heart into the cause of Jesus Christ."

Ministers Receive Letter From Evangelist Who is Coming in Fall.

Dr. W. E. Biederwolf, who will conduct a county wide evangelistic campaign here in fall, has written the officers of the Rushville Ministerial Association that he would like to begin the meeting September 22, but that an earlier date would be acceptable to him. The Rushville ministers had considered September fifteenth the best date for the opening. It will continue five weeks. The date will be settled in the near future.

Select Your Fall Garments Early

There is every reason why you should and no reason why you should not.

Delays are proverbially dangerous. In the case of choosing garments they are both dangerous and expensive.

The danger is that the best things will be snapped up by the earliest buyers.

We shall always have a good selection and if you do not choose for a month there will still be plenty of choice.

But there's no doubt that many of the rarest and best things will be gone.

As for the economy, surely the more wear you get at the same price, the more you save.
